- ★ On Friday 27th we have our Florence Nightingale workshop in school.

Enquiry Question of the week

Who was Florence Nightingale and why was she significant?

Florence Nightingale was known as 'The Lady with the Lamp' - because she walked up and down the corridors of the hospital looking out for her patients. She was a nurse from 1844, and famously helped soldiers in the Crimean War (1854 - 1856). She improved how hospitals looked after patients and is known for making them cleaner and safer. She trained a team of nurses, and also then wrote books to help train nurses across the UK and beyond. She is a significant person in our history because of how she improved nursing and the quality of hospitals.
