Enquiry Question of the week

How are producers, prey and predators linked within a food chain?

Producers: These are like the chefs in nature. They make their own food using sunlight, air, and water. In our example, grass is a producer because it makes its food through a process called photosynthesis. Prey: These are the ones who eat the producers. The grasshopper is an example here, as it eats the grass. They are like the customers in a restaurant, but instead of ordering food, they eat the producers. Predators: These are the ones who eat the prey. In our example, the bird is the predator because it eats the grasshopper. Predators are like the ultimate foodies in nature, enjoying their meals by catching and eating other animals.
